“ Our aunts are special and important people in our lives, so losing one is a huge blow.
But finding comfort or some understanding after losing someone that close to us is also incredibly hard.
Where do you turn to try and feel better? And what do you say to someone who's has passed away?
Neither of those are easy. But finding comfort in words can help.
You will be in my thoughts as you cope with this tragedy of your lost .
My most heartfelt condolences
Richard
