“ Frank was a wonderful and kind man. I was a bartender at hillbilly heaven and Frank would stop in and was always bringing veggies from the garden, play pool with his best friend Delbert. A sweet person I always cherished his kindness and friendship. The world was a much better place with him in it.

“ Frank was always a good man. He, his wife Maggie and my parents in the 70s would get together at our house, listen and dance to music and partake in beer, martinis and pink ladies with the lights down low. I met all the Oldfield children in those times. I am so very sorry for this great loss. Love you all
