“ When peanut was 2 Matt would pick her up and swing her by her feet. After he would put her down she would come back to him arms raised and say “again”, and again he would swing her by her feet. When he would get tired and play was to be stopped for the night and she realized there wasn’t going to be another “again” she would say “tank yuuu Matt”. He wasn’t just playground equipment for toddlers. He was a very intelligent friend. That could sit around a table or run all over creation in the car and have great conversation about everything from current life struggles, highlights, or deep hurts, we would talk about time travel, space exploration, AI, politics, religion, the speed of light, or the best way to make a grilled cheese sandwich. Any time someone would say “what are the odds” Matt would calculate them. Anytime I wanted him to just run around with me I would say “come on lets go on an adventure” that was my way of saying “again”. He could not turn down an adventure. 1 time we ran around all day and only ate a salad for lunch then spent the rest of the laughing because no one believed we only had salad. I have been struggling this week with knowing that like that little toddler at the end of the evening I know there will be no more “again”. So as I look back on all the memories, the laughs, and adventures. I can whole heartily say “TANK YUU MATT”.

“ Matt was the first face I remember from my first day at MCS. On the first day of school I got on the bus and then got very ill. I remember Matt looking at me as I lost my breakfast on the side of the road and to this day 24 years later I can still see Matt looking out the window. He put up with me during our bus rides and let me talk his ears off in late stay while we waited for the bus to pick us up. He was always kind and always friendly. We love you Matt this isn't goodbye but an until we meet again.
I'm sorry to Matt's family for this profound loss. You are all in our prayers.

“ I'm so sorry to hear about Matt's passing. We have many fond memories with the Weaver family. The boys spent countless hours playing board games, video games and basketball. Matt loved marvel comics like his Dad. My thoughts and prayers are with you and your family. I pray for God's comfort and love to surround you.
